

Forum Program

Contemporary issues of critical relevance to Australia's Indigenous tourism industry are on the agenda, when leading tourism industry players from across the globe gather for the Indigenous Tourism Forum following this year's Global Eco Conference in Noosa, October 28.

The Forum is a stand alone conference focussing on environmental sustainability, indigenous youth, culture and heritage and investment and growth for business.

Day Outline

National and international experts present cutting edge case studies followed by hands-on interactive workshops.

Forum delegates will:

- Receive the latest information on emerging trends for the development and growth opportunities for Indigenous tourism products;
- Obtain training and employment updates for positive returns to Indigenous communities both socially and economically; and
- Receive updates on marketing and distribution of Indigenous tourism products.

Indigenous tourism is an iconic Australian experience and is a renowned sector of the Australian tourism industry making this workshop essential for the Indigenous tourism industry, CEOs, tourism operators, industry representatives, policy makers, academics and researchers from throughout Australia to attend!
